Engineering Support

"My intention when setting up Hague Dental Supplies was to focus on the Dental profession and what kind of service that I would like to receive if the ball was on the other foot. How would I like to be treated?"

I believe that a blend of general qualities such as friendliness, communication, reliability, flexibility and punctuality should be paired with technical support (from trained and skilled staff), short lead times and access to the right products at the right price.

Over the years the company has grown considerably, we still strive to provide a support team that is focused on these simple objectives. We are extremely grateful to our long term clients and repay their loyalty with night time engineering support (by holding clients keys), we have built our reputation by ensuring our clients have the minimum down times.

Whether the required service is to change a fuse or to design and supply a Dental department for a Primary Care Trust we treat the task in hand professionally. With our experience of the building trade we are able to take on much more than just the equipment, we are able to assist our clients with advice and support at potentially stressful times."

Jim Hague, Founder and Director of Hague Dental Supplies

"I have been using the services of Hague Dental for many years and continue to recommend them to many of my colleagues. From full surgery installations, to equipment repairs and servicing, their knowledge is second to none. I have always had a very professional and efficient service from Jim and his friendly team. Hague Dental have always met all deadlines for surgery installations and completed full installations at a high standard while I have been away on holiday! You can't ask for more than that."

Case Studies A Real Difference: Dr Ian Kemp

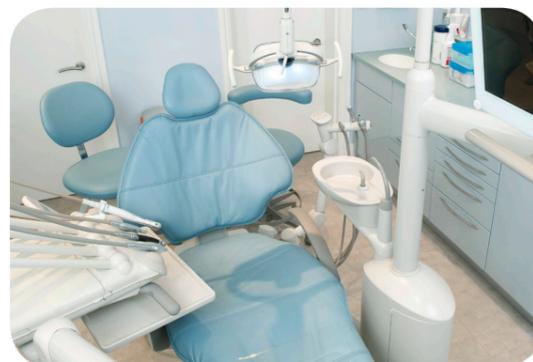

Dr Ian Kemp came to Hague Dental with a clear vision of what he wanted for his new practice in Balham, South London. His aim was to showcase his passion for marrying modern, state-of-the-art facilities with the highest quality patient care.

Dr Kemp selected Hague Dental for their professional knowledge and expertise to work seamlessly alongside his re-fit team to create a leading practice in South London.

Dr Kemp had already visited the A-dec showroom in Thorpe and was immediately able to discuss his requirements with the Hague Dental team. We agreed on a top of the range A-dec 500 package for the principal surgery, with a 12 o'clock A-dec system in surgery 2. Both surgeries and the decontamination room were complemented by Hague Dental's range of Custom Design cabinetry which allowed the practice to maximize the efficient use of floor space and to give a feeling of space.

The re-fit was completed over three months. James' professionalism and practical approach enabled the project to run smoothly and meet the vision which Dr Kemp had set out to achieve.

Dr Kemp continues to draw on Hague Dental's expertise now that the practice is operational.

"They provided a "whole team" approach to the project and were always on hand to help. Their collective knowledge and expertise in the market, coupled with their willingness to provide cost effective solutions to some challenging issues, was a winning formula.

Case Studies A Real Difference: Dr Achal Prashad

Hague Dental first came into contact with Dr Prashad in 2007 when he was looking to open a squat practice in Colliers Wood. Here, after initial site visits, we designed their two surgery practice providing specification and drawings, and working alongside the clients builders to manage the project. As a first practice they were keen to work to a tight budget and previously used equipment was supplied with new Custom Design cabinetry, Satelec X-ray, Bambi compressors and Durr suction pumps.

After the first successful project Hague Dental was asked to provide designs for two further potential practices, unfortunately both purchases fell through. Third time lucky, Dr Prashad exchanged on an excellent site in the centre of Beckenham, Kent.

After the past disappointments, Hague Dental fully fitted two surgeries with Tridac ECO Next packages and pulled strings to dramatically reduce the lead times to ensure that Dr Prashad got the surgery running quickly and efficiently.

"I can safely say that having been through this process three times with Hague Dental, they have delivered and supported to a very high standard. From the initial planning, liaising with builders regarding service specifications and installations of equipment Hague Dental delivered at every stage.
